

Would you rather
be water or fire?

Would you
rather be earth
or air?

Would you rather be a sailor or a soldier?

Would you rather have a £100 to save for a year, or £50 to spend now?

If you could choose
never to go to sleep,
but never feel tired,
would you?

Would you rather you could always decide what happened in all your dreams, or that they always surprised you?

If you could ask tomorrow a question, what would it be?

If you could ask one question and know you would get the right answer, what would your question be?

If animals could talk,
what would be the first question you
asked one?

What makes a good friend?

What makes a good parent?

What makes a good teacher?

What makes a good game?

What makes a good story?

Could an unhappy ending to a story be the best ending?

Would you
rather be a pen
or a pencil?

Can two words mean
exactly the same thing?

If you got paid to play, would that mean it was work?

Is it possible to predict the future?

Does everything
have a cause?

Is it always good to pursue your dream?

Is hope a good
or an evil?

Is it fair to expect the rich to pay for the poor?

Are all lives
worth the same?

Can you have a duty to stay alive?

What is happiness?

What is justice?

How do you know what you know?

Is there anything you can know for certain?

What would we have to find out about dolphins for them to count as people?

Does age bring wisdom?

Are right and wrong the same forever?

Are colours
real?

Is the future
already fixed?

Are some rules
made to be broken?

What does it mean to prove something?

Can someone deserve to die?

Why doesn't being unbelievable spoil
a story?

Is beauty in the eye of the beholder?

Is love at first sight just for stories?

Would  $2+2$  still be 4
if there was no-one to count?

Can people who haven't been born
yet have rights?

Can you have a duty to stay
alive?

What does it mean to mean something?

Does life have meaning?

What is a true friend?

Is there anything
all games have in common?

Could you have a language that had only one speaker?

Do all leaders have something in common?

What should your country mean to you?

What is a poem?

What duties do we have to the future?

What duties do we have to the past?